Thousands of British Dockers Stop Unloading Critically-Needed Food

LONDON—Thousands of dock workers went on strike today, halting the unloading of ships bringing critically-needed cargoes of food and fuel. The full extent of the walk-out is not immediately apparent, but London newspapers say the strike is spreading rapidly and that dock work throughout the city would be paralyzed. The strikers walked out in sympathy with 3,800 Glasgow dockers who quit their jobs six weeks ago because 50 workers there were declared "redundant", and they were dropped from the payrolls. The stevedores and dockers' union, claiming a membership of 7,000 members, and the London lightermen's union, claiming a membership of 4,000 made the strike decision yesterday. The larger dock section of transport and general workers' union, claiming a membership of 14,000, advised members not to go on strike. Newspapers said the "great majority" are disregarding the union.

THREE MENTAL PATIENTS CAPTURED

SAN FRANCISCO—Three of the four dangerous mental patients who escaped from the United States Army's Letterman hospital by trickery and force yesterday, are back in custody today, while search is widened for the fourth escapee and a hospital orderly taken as a hostage. Still at large, more than 24 hours after the escape, was Frank R. Wallrath, 24. The orderly is Wallace Williams, Wallrath, a paratrooper with the 11th airborne division during the war, was convicted by an army court martial last August 23 for deserting under fire, and for twice escaping army confinement. He was sentenced to death, but President Truman later commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. The four patients made their escape from a double-locked psychopathic ward at 2 a.m. after slugging four orderlies summoned by one of the patients. They opened the ward doors with keys taken from orderlies and slugged a guard, taking his pistol.

de MARGNY BEING DEPORTED

OTTAWA—Resources Minister Glen, whose department is in charge of immigration, said today that Count Alfred de Margny is being deported to Mauritius, an island in the Indian ocean, as soon as passage can be arranged. The minister said "he is not acceptable to this country." de Margny gained international notoriety in 1943 when he was accused and acquitted in the Bahamas, of murdering Sir Harry Oakes, his millionaire father-in-law.

CHOCOLATE BAR BOYCOTT SPREADS

VANCOUVER—A teen-age boycott on the eight-cent chocolate bar, which started last week in the Vancouver Island town of Chemainus, apparently is growing, with reports of a similar strike from as far east as Fredericton. Leading momentum to the boycott, youth organizations in Vancouver and Victoria last night supported the buyers' strike, and called for the chocolate bar to be reduced to five cents. The national federation of labor youth decided to place pledge cards in Vancouver schools, and plans picket lines next Saturday. Officials of youth action committee in Victoria is calling a mass meeting of school children on Saturday and said the children will be approached during the week for support.

ARMY COMMANDER ESCAPES DEATH

JERUSALEM—General MacMillan officer commanding British troops in Palestine, escaped death when a terrorist grenade exploded in Jerusalem's "street of prophets" early today. MacMillan's staff car, escorted by armored jeeps, passed the spot only three minutes before the grenade was thrown.

SEEK PALESTINE PROBLEM SOLUTION

LAKE SUCCESS—The United Nations set out today to decide on an approach for seeking a solution to the Palestine problem. Called into an extraordinary session, the United Nations' general assembly is scheduled to consider the proposal for establishing a Holy Land committee inquiry. A British spokesman said Great Britain is ready to accept any decision the United Nations makes, but will insist on world organization to enforce all its own recommendations.

OPPOSE COALITION GOVERNMENT

VANCOUVER—At an executive meeting of the British Columbia Federation of Labor held Sunday night, a motion was tabled urging the support to the provincial opposition party in an effort to defeat the B.C. Coalition government, it was learned today. The meeting was called to discuss recommendations to fight the labor legislation proposed in Bill 39, and also to set the Federation's convention date for June 6-8. Executive members said the executive decided to "explore every angle and method to bring about defeat of the Coalition government."

HOPES RUSSIA WILL GIVE GROUND

WASHINGTON—American hopes for easing the United States-Soviet tensions were raised today by reports from State Secretary Marshall who believes his country's firmness in the European Peace treaty issues, may lead to Russian giving ground. Marshall's views were said before congressional leaders at a White House conference yesterday in advance of his radio report at 7:30 p.m. (CDT) tonight, on the results of the Moscow foreign ministers' conference. At the White House conference, Marshall is said to have counseled patience with Russia in the hope that as they digest the American position within the next few months, they may go to London for the next conference in November, more amenable to suggestions from their wartime allies on vital points involved in the proposed Austrian and German peace treaties. The Secretary was said to have related the proposed American action to strengthen Greece and Turkey against Communism, and appeared to have made a profound impression on the Russian people and their leaders, despite the fact that the program was kept out of official discussions at the Moscow conference.

A. K. Loyd Will Attend Geneva Parley to Act as Gov't Adviser

Leaves Kelowna Over Weekend to Take Part in Trade Agreement Talks

A. K. Loyd, president and general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., left Kelowna on Saturday enroute to Geneva, Switzerland, to take part in the conference now underway between 18 nations of the world in regard to trade and tariffs. An official Canadian delegation left for this conference some time ago, and they held a preliminary discussion in London, where they conferred with United Kingdom authorities. During the past year, a number of preliminary discussions have taken place with U.S. officials in reference to the Canadian-United States trade agreements, and particularly in regard to the horticultural products. Mr. Loyd is expected to unofficially attend the Geneva conference, with the idea that their detailed information as to the effect of various proposed changes in the tariff might be of special use to the Canadian government negotiators. At the suggestion of the Council, Mr. Loyd and Les Burrows, secretary of the Horticultural Council, were instructed to proceed to Geneva, in order to take part in the discussions. The Horticultural Council feels that the matter under discussion is of such great importance to the industry as a whole, that it would be well to make a special effort to be in touch with the negotiations. Mr. Loyd declared before leaving the city, "While all fruit and vegetable provinces in Canada are affected in one way or another, British Columbia is more concerned than any other area in the tariffs on fresh fruit. The results of the trade conferences at Geneva will affect the conditions under which the industry operates for many years to come. Mr. Loyd expects to be absent from the city for about six weeks.

STORE OWNERS SHOULD MAKE OWN DECISION

"Don't Let Citizens Tell You When to Open or Close" Says Retail Official

HOLD MEETING

George Matthews Declares the Lack of Control of Retail Stores 'Ridiculous Situation'

"Don't let the citizens tell you when you should open or close. In that way you'll lose a right that belongs to you." This statement was made by Geo. Matthews, Vancouver, secretary of the B.C. branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, when he addressed a meeting of local retailers here on Friday night. While much of his talk dealt with retailers' problems in Vancouver, he reverted to local aspects in answering questions put to him by the Kelowna merchants. Mr. Matthews said there is still a good chance of legislation being passed to regulate hours of sale for stores outside the city limits. On a trip through the Valley, Mr. Matthews paused long enough to address the local meeting and to bring retailers up-to-date on all legislation affecting the merchants. He described the lack of control over stores outside city limits as a "ridiculous situation."

But, he was sorry to say, nothing had been done about it yet. "We have taken it up with Victoria three times, the last time during the past session, but we couldn't get it through. He suggested another approach, one he felt sure would succeed. "Take it up with your member (W. A. C. Bennett, M.L.A., South Okanagan). If he will present it to the Legislature, we, the Retail Merchants' Association, will get the support to put it through," he promised.

Favor Early Closing

New legislation affecting the morning of the weekly half holiday has been passed, he said. City Councils now have the full power to act as they see fit. If they think stores should close on Wednesday morning, that is up to them. "The responsibility is on their shoulders," he said.

He also discussed the regulations covering Saturday night closing and the procedure to bring it about, or leave the stores open if the merchants so wished. In his opinion, there was a trend throughout B.C. to close early on Saturday nights, and in answer to a question from one of the local merchants, he promised a province-wide survey would be made.

Mr. Matthews dwelt at length on consumer credit. "The majority of retailers in B.C. favor some regulations which will be at least a basis of deferred payment sales," he said. He foresaw strong opposition from his interest in the finance companies, to getting legislation of this sort.

Chain stores, too, would be troublesome, he warned. He cited as an example a big chain of ladies' wear stores in Vancouver that was owned by a large contracting company. This chain was giving credit with free abandon, while other big chains were advancing $1 a week, the spokesman disclosed.

The R.M.A., according to Mr. Matthews, wants: 1. A regulation for a minimum down payment, at least 20 per cent depending on the class of products; 2. A fair carrying charge, the cash price being marked on the product, and the contract to show what the carrying charge is; 3. A maximum time limit for payments. He asked the local body to help the R.M.A. get these regulations, "no matter how small or meagre they may be."

LOCAL YOUTH BADLY HURT IN ACCIDENT

William and Jack Taylor Rushed to Hospital After Car Overturns in Ditch

FAULTY STEERING

Elder Boy Is Reported to be More Seriously Injured—Has Fractured Vertebra

William Taylor, 18 years of age, lies critically injured today in the Kelowna General Hospital, while his younger brother, Jack, is also suffering from shock and bruises following an accident on the K.L.O. Road Sunday afternoon, when their automobile overturned in the ditch about half a mile west of the Mission Creek school. A faulty steering gear is said to have been responsible for the accident.

The eldest boy, who was driving the car, sustained a fractured vertebra, broken jaw, a badly lacerated ear, lacerations to the face and bruises, while several of his teeth were knocked out. Jack Taylor is said to be the less seriously injured and will be released from hospital within the next few days. According to reports, the car slipped into the ditch due to the faulty steering mechanism, and when it struck the bank, it overturned, throwing the occupants under the vehicle. The youths were still under the car when the local ambulance arrived on the scene.

About $100 damage was caused in a two-car collision at 4:15 p.m. Saturday at the corner of Pendero St. and Lawrence Ave. Damage was estimated at $80 to the car operated by Mrs. R. Ivens, of Okanagan Mission, and at $25 for the auto driven by Mrs. T. E. Matthews, of Rutland. No one was injured. Only slight damage was caused in the second accident to occur on Sunday. Cars driven by Frank Schaeffer and C. Dearing tangled at 3 p.m. on Bernard Ave. near Ellis St.

Stores to Remain Open Until 9 p.m. Saturdays From May to December

KELOWNA retail stores will remain open Saturday nights until 9 p.m., during the months of May to December. This was decided at a meeting of the Retail Merchants' Bureau held in the Board of Trade rooms on Friday night. There was some suggestion that late Saturday closings be dropped altogether, but store owners agreed to remain open the extra three hours during the remainder of the year, at least. Saturday night closing has been a contentious question for some time and there were indications at last week's parley that the matter would be looked into thoroughly this year, and would be given a complete airing at the annual general meeting of the Bureau.

Most of the 26 members attending the meeting seemed to favor early Saturday closings. Later they were told by George Matthews, secretary of the B.C. branch of the Retail Merchants' Association, of Vancouver, that the trend throughout the province was to get away from late Saturday hours.

Present Petition

A suggestion by Felix Sutton, butcher, found many followers. "At least 45 years and we'll still find we have this question to thrash out every year. I suggest a petition be sent out among all the merchants. Get them to sign up, either in favor of early Saturday closing or against it. That's the only way to find out what the general feeling is," he said. Personally, Mr. Sutton continued, "I am in favor of early closing. But I am willing to practice democracy. If the majority is in favor of staying open Saturday nights, am willing to be ruled by the decision."

N.H.L. Players Will Meet School Pupils and Attend Board of Trade Luncheon

FOR MANY of Kelowna's youthful hockey hopefuls and fans this week will see a long-cherished dream come true when some of the best players ever to don a uniform in the National Hockey League will be guests of the Kelowna Board of Trade, and in a way, of the mighty mites of B.C. midget hockey fame, the Kelowna Kodiaks.

Montreal Canadiens, N.H.L. champions and last year's Stanley Cup winners—they were ousted in the cup finals this year by Toronto Maple Leafs—and an all-star team will arrive in Vernon about noon Wednesday for their two-game exhibition stand at the Civic Arena there.

Entertaining the N.H.L. players heads in the city are expected to attend. A board spokesman said it would like to accommodate more and limited facilities make such a plan impossible. Tentative plans provide for the ladies in the tour to be the guests of wives of members of the board at a luncheon at Eldorado Arms.

With a hockey game for the children of the Valley slated for 3 p.m. Thursday the teams are expected to leave here at about 1:15. The caravan may probably include several private cars filled with Kelowna and district school children going to Vernon for the game. The Kodiaks, according to Yochim, are a cinch to be in the trek north.

Even with 600 tickets for the Wednesday night game—400 reserved and 200 rush—allocated to Kelowna, scores of city people will have to forego seeing the game. According to Tubby Lloyd-Jones, at Spurr's, there were at least 150 disappointed because they were unable to get tickets for the game. There is a likelihood that some tickets may be available for the Thursday afternoon game. This could not be confirmed at press time.

Regina was the starting point of the 13-game exhibition series. The two teams played last week in Alberta and will spend this week in B.C. before making a short stand in Washington.

Attend Luncheon

By noon, the puck chasers will be taken to the Royal Anne for a luncheon. Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games, a limited number of board of trade members, delegates from the Kelowna Athletic Round Table, Yochim and Fraser, and other hockey

Traffic Advisory Committee Considers Plans To Revamp City Traffic Regulations

CITY RETAIL HEADS OPPOSE DELICATESSEN

Proprietors of Store Decline to Reveal What Next Move Will Be

LIVELY DEBATE

Proprietors of a delicatessen shop in Kelowna decline to reveal what their next move will be following the decision of the Traffic Advisory Committee to recommend that diagonal parking be permitted on the north side of Lawrence and Leon avenues between Ellis and Abbott streets, but on the south side, parallel parking would be enforced. The traffic committee was formed at the suggestion of Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games, for the purpose of studying traffic control within the city limits and for submitting recommendations to the City Council.

At the same time, the committee also was advised that it is impossible for individuals to pay fines at the police office without making a personal appearance in police court. Word had been received from the attorney general's department that this procedure is illegal, as the clerk of the court must hold a commission as a justice of the peace. Heretofore, traffic control had been the responsibility of the chairman of the police, but with the committee, it is impossible for members of the Council to give the necessary time and consideration to the matter.

R. H. Wilson, manager of Kelowna Frozen Food Lockers, was the sole representative of the Delicatessen Shop. He pointed out that they were seeking special retail classification that would entitle them to remain open after other stores had closed for the benefit of tourists. This drew strong objection from several retailers. H. Waldron, grocer, said: "For 15 years we have been fighting for shorter hours. Now we have them, and you want to be open after other stores are closed. We have checked if some stores are allowed to remain open after regular closing hours."

Felix Sutton, on behalf of the butchers, said they had no objection to delicatessens opening here. But they did object to them being open after other stores were closed. He implied that if special hours were granted to the delicatessen, butchers would apply for the same considerations.

Trade Licences There was some confusion in the minds of the butchers as to whether or not they could go into the delicatessen business with the licences they now hold. The bureau agreed to have the city clarify the matter. Among his reasons for wanting to stay open on the evenings, Mr. Wilson said it would be of benefit to the tourist trade. There is always the possibility of tourists wanting to pick up some prepared foods in the evening. "No tourist goes around picking up roasts at night," he said. "I don't propose to be a butcher shop staying open at night."

Mr. Waldron replied that if the butchers wanted the things mentioned by Mr. Wilson, they could get them during the day at grocery stores or butcher shops, or they could get them at restaurants at night. "There is no reason for a delicatessen here," Mr. Waldron declared.

LABOR SURVEY WILL BE MADE IN KELOWNA

Make Effort to Ascertain What Labor Will be Available Next Fall

The labor situation was so serious in Kelowna last fall during the packing season that the Kelowna Board of Trade and the Junior Chamber of Commerce have joined together to make a survey of the city in an effort to ascertain what the labor situation will be available next fall, and failing sufficient local help, what accommodation will be available for any outside help it may be necessary. The survey will include every house in the city and will be conducted from May 5 to 10.

Last year the situation was so serious that crews could not be obtained for several apple graders, and some of those which did run did not have a full complement of staff. The result was that in order to handle the crop, a considerable quantity of fruit was shipped in bulk, resulting in loss to growers and community.

Actually, last year there was not enough help in the packing houses to run efficient day shifts. It is now recognized that if the present large crops are to be handled in the best possible manner, night shifts are essential. This means that the packing houses staffs of the past few years must be increased by at least seventy-five per cent.

The problem is so serious from a community point of view that a committee of the Kelowna Board of Trade, headed by J. Montiehi, has been working closely with the packing houses. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is also handling some details.

After an intensive study, the joint committee has come to the conclusion that the only possible approach to the problem is to make a minute survey to obtain as far as possible an accurate picture of what the labor situation may be in September.

Next Monday, nine men will be canvassing every house in the city with a questionnaire. Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games and Board of Trade officials have expressed the hope that all householders will co-operate in giving the requested information. Every question has a definite purpose and unless public co-operation is forthcoming, the final picture as painted by the survey results will not be accurate. It is estimated that less than ten minutes will be required from each household's time.

Newly-Formed Committee Holds Initial Meeting—May Change Parking Regulations on Lawrence and Leon Avenues—Group Informed Fines Cannot Be Paid Into Police Court Without Appearance Before Magistrate—Possibility of Installing Parking Meters and Abolishing U-Turns on Bernard Avenue Discussed

Bicycles Impede Auto Traffic

THE newly-formed traffic control advisory committee last Thursday set plans in motion designed to revamp traffic regulations in the city, and as a means of overcoming the ever-increasing parking problem, recommended that diagonal parking be permitted on the north side of Lawrence and Leon avenues between Ellis and Abbott streets, but on the south side, parallel parking would be enforced. The traffic committee was formed at the suggestion of Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games, for the purpose of studying traffic control within the city limits and for submitting recommendations to the City Council.

At the outset of the meeting, Mayor Hughes-Games was elected chairman of the committee, and decision will be made later as to whether the body will be a permanent committee appointed by by-law, or a committee appointed from year to year. Attending the conference were Mayor Hughes-Games, Aldermen J. H. Horn and M. A. Meikle; Staff Sgt. W. J. Thomson; Harry W. Witt, representing the Junior Chamber of Commerce; R. W. South, representing the Kelowna Board of Trade, and Police Magistrate Harry H. Angle.

MISADVENTURE CAUSED DEATH JURY VERDICT

Coroner's Jury Takes Exception to Callous Manner by Westbank Indians

A six-man coroner's jury enquiring Thursday into the death of Jerome McDougall, 30, Westbank Indian, who was found dead, April 20, decided his death came by "misadventure."

The jury recommended that in future a "closer supervision be kept over the Westbank Indian Reserve, and it took strong exception to the 'callous manner in which the witnesses of the accident acted, by neglecting to call or render assistance."

Indian and halfbreed witnesses, in giving accounts of the events leading up to the death, told Coroner H. H. Angle a story of impulsive and indifference. They testified, "A clerk from the liquor store said he had made heavy purchases on April 19. McDougall kept making a nuisance of himself by his intrusive action at a house on the reserve, one witness said. Harsh words led to wild swing and McDougall's horse reared up and fell on top of him. Several witnesses saw him crushed by the weight of the horse."

One man assisted him back on his horse and they watched him slide to the ground a few minutes later. He was pulled to the side of the road and ignored. Police said McDougall, who served overseas with the commandos, had been dead several hours by the time they were found. The body was lying face down at a spot about 170 yards north of the ferry wharf.

Death was caused by a severe crushing blow over the lower part of his chest and upper abdomen, causing internal bleeding, a physician stated.

Funeral services for Mr. McDougall were held on the reserve Thursday morning. His brother, John, also died of painful injuries when he was burned to death 13 months ago.

Members of the jury were: A. B. Wood, J. F. A. Martin, J. S. Gibb, L. Harding, F. Dowle and J. A. Hume.

Staff Sgt. Thomson replied such procedure would be illegal as it is necessary for the offenders to appear before a magistrate. He undertakes to turn to Page 10, Story 2.

Irrigation Heads Present Brief to Federal Cabinet On Water Development

IN AN area containing many millions of acres of good farmlands, less than 30,000 acres are under irrigation in the North and South Okanagan Valley. The outlay for irrigation installations is returned three times over in one season in the value of goods produced. Thousands of acres of land in the Westbank area could be turned into crop-producing areas if irrigation water were provided. Would-be soldier settlers are unable to acquire lands within the price range of the V.L.A. loan, and new civilian settlers are in many cases burdening themselves with excessive capital costs, that might easily bring disaster in the event of any marked recession in agricultural prices.

These were the salient points of a lengthy brief drafted by the Association of B.C. Irrigation Districts, which outlined the possible development of the area through reconstruction and extension of irrigation facilities. The brief was presented to the Federal cabinet in Ottawa by A. W. Gray and D. McDougall, president and secretary, respectively, of the organization, last week. They left Kelowna last Tuesday, and are expected to be away for about a week.

Mr. Gray, who is also president of the Black Mountain Irrigation Association, has made a careful study of the potential irrigation areas of the dry belt in British Columbia, and has been advocating for some time that the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation scheme be extended to British Columbia.

In view of the fact there is a considerable amount of interest in the extension of irrigation projects in British Columbia, the Courier is giving a detailed account of the brief presented to the federal cabinet. Within the barriers of British Columbia's Coast mountain range on the west, and the Cascades on the east, there lies a land of rolling hills, winding rivers, and lake-filled valleys, where the annual rainfall is so light that without the aid of irrigation normal farming operations are not possible save in a few favored spots. In the early days the country was divided into huge cattle ranches, and supported a sparse population of ranchers and cowhands. Even today this is characteristic of a large part of the area. In localities where irrigation systems have been established, however, the entire appearance of the land is changed. Turn to Page 6, Story 1.

Mr. Browne's Letter

In another column of this issue there appears a "Letter to the Editor" from J. W. B. Browne, manager of Radio Station CKOV, in which he replies to a "Letter to the Editor" which appeared in our Thursday last issue. Mr. Browne, in his reply, touches upon a matter the saying of which has been long overdue. As a newspaper we agree with Mr. Browne's statements and only regret that he did not further amplify them. He might have well discussed at some length the general lack of appreciation on the part of the people of this community for the public service rendered by their public mediums, CKOV and The Courier.

While operating through different mediums, these two semi-public utilities perform somewhat similar functions and have comparable positions in the business and civic life of this community. As Mr. Browne puts it: "We earn our own revenue and we earn it, we sometimes think, the hard way, for we have long recognized the utter impossibility of even beginning to please all the people all the time."

Actually the people of the Kelowna area do not appreciate the excellent public service they receive from CKOV and The Courier. As Mr. Browne points out, his organization gave thousands of dollars worth of time to war effort publicity, charity appeals and other public services during the past few years. Identically the same thing can be said about The Courier. True, both the radio station and the newspaper did receive some advertising revenue but the free space and time given far exceeded any monetary income.

The Courier is recognized in newspaper circles as probably the most generous supporter of public appeals and services of any newspaper in this province. There is ample testimony from Victory Loan, Red Cross and officials of a score of other organizations to this effect. This service could not have been performed without adequate revenue to purchase paper and expensive machinery and to pay the wages of more than two score employees—a payroll which, incidentally, makes no mean contribution to the economic life of the community.

There are several successful events staged in this city annually which owe no small part of their success to the free publicity given them by this newspaper. One of these is the Regatta: in itself an excellent show, but it would never have, we believe, reached its present pinnacle without the steady and constant flow of free publicity through the columns of this paper. Moreover, there is not a week that goes by that some organization does not sponsor an event in a two dollar advertisement and receive five dollars worth of free publicity.

The newspaper serves the community in many other ways: support for civic undertakings, interpreting civic affairs, boosting civic needs and so on. To cite just one instance: the ferry service. The fact that there are now two ferries floating on the lake and a twenty-four-hour ferry service for twelve months of the year will be inaugurated within a few days is due more to the efforts of this newspaper than any other factor. For a decade The Courier has constantly pointed out the inadequacy of the service and continually urged an improvement until the whole Valley became aware that the ferry service is its vital concern and convinced Victoria that an improved service was imperative.

Such instances could be cited at considerable length, but while The Courier takes a justifiable pride in its accomplishments, it takes them as a matter of course. These things are part of the duty of a newspaper to the community it serves and The Courier, as Kelowna's only newspaper, honestly tries—and we believe succeeds—to work for the advancement of the Central Okanagan.

But, as Mr. Browne points out, there must be revenue if a radio station or a newspaper is to serve its community. If we have a "beef" it is that that fact is not appreciated by many organizations. It is a common experience for The Courier to give publicity to some organization or event and then to find that any needed printing has been taken elsewhere to a shop unable to give supporting publicity. One example: A certain organization every week obtains space free in the newspaper. Even during the war years when newsprint was short and every line of type was precious that organization gets its four, five, six inches of free publicity. Then it puts on a bit of a "do" and had its tickets printed at another printing shop. It was not the two or three dollars involved which rankled; it was the patent lack of appreciation of the co-operation the organization had received; the thoughtlessness.

It is the things which make a newspaper editor or a radio station operator—tear his hair and wonder whether there is any point in co-operating. Perhaps a hard-boiled attitude would be better and more appreciated.

All these things could probably have been said by Mr. Browne in his letter to the editor. They, at least, make us agree with him wholeheartedly when he says "We earn our own revenue and we earn it, we sometimes think, the hard way, for we have long recognized the utter impossibility of even beginning to please all the people, all the time."

Cancer Campaign

The local cancer campaign is being extended another week because most of the canvassing committees were a little late in getting started. The response to date, as far as can be ascertained, has been good, but the objective of $5,000 has not yet been reached. C. R. Bull, the committee chairman, states that the committee is determined to see the quota reached. Kelowna, as far back as can be remembered, has never failed to do its part in any worthy cause and there is little likelihood that it will fail to do so in this instance when the cause is so worthy as that of defeating the cancer scourge.

The canvassing is not yet complete in most of the rural areas and in the city. During the current week those who have not been approached will probably be contacted. It is assumed, of course, that they will contribute generously. If any person should be missed in the canvass, any bank or The Kelowna Courier will be pleased to accept your donation and turn it over to the cancer officials.

The final week of the drive is now on. When the canvasser calls just remember the Courier will be pleased to accept their donation your pockets.

Hockey Invasion

Thursday will be rather a unique occasion in Kelowna as it will be the first time that this city has been visited by members of a professional hockey aggregation. The visit has been made possible through the co-operation of Vernon organizations and it is hoped that it will result in a stimulated interest in hockey here.

The Canadians and an all-star team are on a barn-storming trip through the west and are playing two games in the Vernon arena. Members of Vernon service clubs are driving the party of about fifty to Kelowna where they will be the guests, for a limited period, of the Kelowna Board of Trade.

The local plans are not elaborate but seem to be the most suitable that could be arranged when the shortness of time and the accommodation situation is considered. A short drive around the city has been arranged and at eleven-thirty the party will be introduced to the school youngsters on the school grounds. This is an open air affair and a public address system is available. It is hoped that the members of the general public who may be interested will attend this half-hour ceremony, which will be handled by members of the Kodak hockey team, the homeless wonders who made something of a name for themselves during the past winter.

The luncheon for the visitors will be at the Royal Anne. Due to restricted accommodation only sixty-five can attend and the Board of Trade regrets that more interested local people cannot be invited. In order to have as many local men as possible present arrangements are being made to have the women visitors guests of the Kelowna Board at the El Dorado Arms.

As the party must leave Kelowna about one-fifteen the luncheon will be short and speeches kept at a minimum. His Worship Mayor W. B. Hughes-Games will extend the civic welcome.

Short as the visit is, Kelowna will be glad to welcome the party. It will give local youngsters an opportunity to see some of their sporting heroes in the flesh and give to them a reality which a mere name cannot convey. The visit, too, will stimulate adult interest in hockey and may tend to accelerate the construction of the local arena in order that in future years local people may see the best in hockey on local ice.

r.p.m.'s Column

THE QUESTION OF THE month. Why do the department of public works men, when patching a road not fill ALL the holes. The general complaint—and I have heard the matter discussed at least a score of times in the past month—is that some of the holes are filled but some are not for some unknown reason. As one man said in a group of a dozen holes eight will be filled and four left unfilled. Why? No one yet has been able to figure out the reasoning, although obviously there must be a perfectly good reason. The complaint is not directed against the local men as the practice seems to be a general policy throughout the province. As a matter of fact it is rather a bad one from the driver's point of view. When he sees new patches ALL the holes are filled. He does, at least, until he drops into a big one rather unexpectedly.

ANOTHER ANGLE which I have heard discussed at some length is why the department leaves the road repair work so long before starting it. Some have suggested it is because the provincial financial year ends on March 31st and the department must wait until new funds are available before commencing work. These same people wonder why, if this is the case, the local departments do not hold back some patching material in the fall to have it available in the spring regardless of the department's fiscal year. A couple of weeks ago I checked with one of the higher officials and he stated that the fiscal year did not have a thing to do with it, but that the reason for patching delay is that the moisture must all be gone. That sounded reasonable until one saw patching being done on Steven's Pass with snow on the roadside and water running over the road.

AND SO ONE is puzzled. District Engineer Stevens of town and country cannot check with him. The two-page question remains unanswered: why is road patching left so late and why, when patching is started, are not all the holes filled?

A FEW DAYS AGO Elmore Philpott in his column in the Vancouver Sun made one of those mistakes which are so easy to make and yet which are so silly. A typical Philpott mistake, in other words. In talking about Mount Eisenhower, he called it Cathedral Mountain and said it was shaped more like a cathedral than like General Ike. The only trouble was that the old name of the mountain now called "Eisenhower" was not "Cathedral" but "Castle".

VICTORIA—Racial, religious and political antipathies have never been more active than today, Bishop Harold E. Sexton told the Anglican clergy in Victoria, as he referred to a "dangerously sensitive and bewildered world."

In an attack on "fancy religions," he said that "some of our own people who have been generally ill-instructed, seem to fall victim to these plausible systems."

"It is extraordinary that so many people are seemingly impressed by the kind of self-appointed evangelists, quacks and persons who are only too ready to pervert the Christian religion into a channel for the conveyance of money to their own pockets," he said.

He complimented the Roman Catholic Church for "teaching her children not only how to make a living, but also how to live."

He also pointed out the general recognition of the truth that youth must be taught how to live, juvenile delinquency might not have assumed its present menacing proportions."

Attorney-General Gordon S. Wismer plans to hold a discussion in Vancouver with the Police Commission with the object of adopting a "safe and sane" policy for controlling Sunday activities.

This was revealed when the attorney-general's office refused to grant a flat to permit prosecution of a Sunday concert by the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, requested by prosecutor Evans Wasson.

Finance Minister Herbert Anscombe told a meeting of Progressive Conservatives in Victoria that the British Columbia dairy industry will not prosper unless dairy farmers "get more money for their milk."

"Farmers who produce milk are getting nowhere," he said. "The situation is causing great apprehension over the future of the dairy industry."

"If farmers are going out of the milk business, they seem to be in a bad way. It is only for one reason, that they are not making enough money." There was a possibility that a crisis might arise in the province where large cities would be without adequate milk supply.

Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy minister of health, reported in Victoria that the leading cause of death in British Columbia during February this year was heart disease with 265 deaths, followed by cancer with 113.

Most notable decrease in the death toll from any diseases was from influenza, which only five deaths in the first two months of this year, compared with 21 in the same period in 1946.

Pneumonia fatalities declined from 44 in Jan. and February last year to 38 for the same period this year. There were only three deaths from agricultural and forestry accidents in February compared with 10 for February, 1946.

Our Town

GONE FISHING
It is 5 a.m. Drizzling
The lights from our car slice through the grey, wet night and we swing into the parking place,
The lights go off and the night rushes in. We step out into the soft rain.
This is the hour when men conquer nations or fish. We are after the fish. The rain makes no difference. It runs down your face in rivulets, drips off your weatherproof. Rain is standard equipment in a fishing trip, something to be accepted without comment.

We cart our stuff down to the float, stumbling in the darkness and cussing softly for forgetting the flashlight. It is quiet on the water. Only the muffled splash of the rain and the restless bump of the boat against the wharf disturbs the magic minutes before dawn.
We roll back the boat's canvas cover, lay the rods gently across the seats, throw the rest of the stuff in the locker under the back seat.
Jim stoops over the motor, a dim, hunch-backed bulk. The flywheel spins. There is an embarrassed cough from the engine.

Another slip and she wakes reluctantly from sleep. She rumbles into action uneven at first, then smooth, and a flat echo comes back at us from the dim shoreline. Plopplop-plop says the motor and the ech comes back Pu-lop, pu-lop, pu-lop.

Then we throw off the painter and chug out, away from the shadow of the shore. As we look back we see the wake of bubbles whitely in the black water.

The dawn is coming up behind the long hill behind. The first delicate fingers of light throw the ridge's tree-tops into faint silhouette.
The birth of a day. As fresh as the dawn. A sage of promise.
So go the disjointed thoughts of the fisherman in the dawn.

And then—wham!—out goes the line with a thin scream. The fisherman replaces the dreamer. You kill the engine and Jim reels in his line to get out of your way. It's your show.
This is why you got up while sensible people slept.
He gives you a run for your money, somewhere down deep there in the grey-blue water a big fish with a heart like a whale. He takes your line and runs and far out there, he jumps clean, the water spraying his silver sides, and he hits heavily, still fighting.

There's something personal between you and the fish. You respect his courage and his cleverness, qualities transmitted to you along the line through the answering whip of your rod.

Finally, muscles aching from the fight, you bring him alongside the boat. He swims slowly, angrily, just under the surface and you watch his black-green back. He may kick up against the side of the boat and break away. Then Jim has him in the gaff and he's flopping along the floor-boards to be vanquished only in death and in you, at that moment there are conflicting feelings of triumph and regret.

Then the motor flutters into life again and you look once more at the mountains and out across the misty water, turning now to a pale pink and the rain has stopped. You wonder why you didn't do it more often.

Thus, the fisherman.

OTTAWA (C.P.)—What is more typical of the Canadian spring than a dish of maple syrup. Jars of maple syrup and sugar and sugar-cakes appear in all the market places.

Since maple syrup may be classed as a luxury product, it often is desirable to extend its delicious flavor as far as possible. Home economists of the consumers section, Dominion department of agriculture, recommend maple biscuits as a means of serving six to eight persons with one cup of syrup.

MAPLE BISCUITS: Two cups sifted flour; one teaspoon salt; five tablespoons shortening; two-thirds cup milk; four teaspoons baking powder; two cups maple syrup. Sift dry ingredients into a shortening until mixture is well blended. Add milk. Mix to make a soft dough. Pat out to one-inch thickness and cut into biscuits. Meanwhile, pour syrup into a baking dish and bring to a boil on top of stove. Place biscuits in hot syrup. Bake uncovered in a hot oven for 12 minutes. Serve as dessert, using syrup as sauce. Six to eight servings.

That adage about a hard working man needing plenty of meat is scientifically correct for a man really gets most of the energy he needs from such things as bread, sugar and fats. However, meat does furnish the mineral iron for the blood and protein for building muscles.

Faced with rising prices and shortages among the more popular cuts of meat, housewives would do well to turn to new and interesting ways of preparing what meat they are able to buy.

The Canadian Red Cross (Ontario Division) has a recipe for Hamburg Potatoes, an ideal luncheon dish.

Ingredients: 10 potatoes, milk, flour, seasoning, five medium onions, three-quarters of a pound of hamburger steak.

Par potatoes and slice and place in layers as for scalloped potatoes. Slice or chop onions. Spread hamburger over top of potatoes and add sliced onions. Add just enough milk to come to the level of the potatoes, but do not cover the meat. Bake in moderate oven until potatoes are properly cooked, and hamburger lightly browned on top.

And here is a new method of preparing liver:

Ingredients: 1½ pounds of beef or pork liver; two tablespoons fat; one teaspoon salt; one cup of corn; two teaspoons dried celery leaves; two small onions; six carrots; ½ cup of tomatoes; ¼ cup vegetable water; two tablespoons flour.

Prepare celery, cut in pieces and put in bottom of greased baking dish, sprinkle with salt. Cut liver in pieces for serving, place on top of celery and dot with fat. Chop onion and dice carrots. Put these with tomato and vegetable water and add liver. Bake in moderate oven 45 minutes, keeping dish covered during the first half hour of cooking. Thicken gravy with flour and serve hot.

SOUTH OKANAGAN VALLEY NEWS ROUNDUP

SUMMERLAND RATEPAYERS will be asked to vote this year on a raise in domestic water rates to provide a sufficient annual income to offset a $20,000 debt, in order that domestic water service may be extended to the north bench area and Crescent Beach. This was the decision reached at a meeting attended by property owners and prospective water users held last week. If the plan is adopted, nearly fifty users will be added to the domestic water system, it is expected, and this portion of the municipality will be given an opportunity to develop to a far greater extent than was previously possible. Some favored the cost being borne by the area affected without bringing the scheme into the entire domestic water system, but the majority of those present at the meeting favored the latter policy. If the plan is adopted, the quarterly charge for domestic water would be raised approximately 50 cents, it is estimated.

PENTICTON JUNIOR CHAMBER of Commerce elected "Bobby" Joyson, its first vice-president, to succeed Dean Miller as president of the organization. The new president has been actively associated with the "Jaycees" since his arrival in Pentiction has been occupying the chair since Mr. Miller's departure. There remain three months of the "old" term following which elections must be held, in accordance with the constitution of the club. Resignation of Councillor J. "Harry" Almack from the executive and the election of R. L. Dick Sharp, another director to the first vice-presidency of the club, necessitated filling these posts as well.

A PENTICTON MAN, who spent considerable time and money clearing a municipally-owned waterfront lot at Skaha Lake under the impression that it formed part of his own, adjoining property, appeared before the Pentiction Council last week in an effort to buy the lot. He was Max Ewart, who offered to purchase the lot and rent to adjoining lots, but council was not particularly disposed to sell.

A PENTICTON BARRISTER, Rupert Pincoff died of a heart attack April 19 which was believed brought on by the excitement of a hockey game to which he was listening on the radio at his home. He was well known throughout the British Columbia having practised law since 1912.

AT OLIVER, GROWERS of the Southern Okanagan Lands Project, last week heard of plans of the department of lands to boost water rates for the irrigation area from the present $8 an acre. Deputy Minister of Lands, George Melrose, speaking before a capacity audience, stated in his explanatory address: "It is felt that the project has reached full maturity and development and it should no longer be necessary for the government to put up funds for its operation. A lively question period followed Mr. Melrose's address in which a number of controversial points were cleared up. Future water rates will be set and based on operation costs and upkeep, with a reserve, laid aside for replacements. The project's maintenance expenditures and so controls the water rates. Veterans or others just starting an orchard could not be given a special rate for the first few years to enable them to get established."

PLANS FOR THE DISTRIBUTION of the Pentiction hospital, set up by the Pentiction hospital board, to be handled by the organization, were reviewed by the Junior Chamber of Commerce last week. Official statements of the organization in connection with the matter reads: "The Pentiction Junior Chamber of Commerce realizes present hospital facilities are inadequate and has placed the machinery of its organization in motion to bring the matter to a head, and get an expression of opinion from the taxpayers."

REORGANIZATION OF THE Pentiction branch of the Navy League of Canada, is signalled in the announcement that the chairmanship of the branch has been assumed by Commander H. G. Nares.

PENTICTON COUNCIL, stymied in its efforts to give essential services to residents by an acute shortage of materials, came to grips with the problem of extending water services to new subdivisions. A delegation from the Baukhams subdivision asked for some consideration, explaining that well water, which is all they now have, is not fit to use. Council, while sympathetic, pointed out that services had

Baby Week Being Observed In Kelowna April 28 - May 5; Stores Feature Baby Goods

EVER since the turn of the century, one day of the year has been set aside to pay tribute to mothers all over the world. This has usually been a time when Mother has been freed of all kitchen chores and other household duties, and Father and the children have made every effort to ease her burdens. Special church services are held to pay tribute to the home-maker, and ministers devote sermons to the one person who is largely responsible for raising the family. During recent years—probably due to some ambitious sales promoter—the household has paid tribute to the man of the house, in the form of Fathers' Day, and he too has been freed of chopping wood or tinkering with some gadget around the home.

Now, for the first time since the world has had a chance to settle down to normal living again, Canadians from coast to coast will honor the Baby of the family, and this week, April 28 to May 5, has been set aside for the special occasion. While the youngest member of the household will be too busy sleeping or eating to know what it is all about, nevertheless, the week will receive special attention during the next seven days.

For that reason, two local drug stores, a photography studio, three dry goods stores, a grocery establishment and a shoe store are co-operating in an effort to bring to the public's attention the necessity of providing wholesome food and clothing for the infant, not forgetting, of course, the idea of having a picture of the baby so that it may be referred to during later years.

Doctors and scientists have made rapid strides during recent years in providing various types of medicines, vitamins, and other things that are necessary for baby's comfort, while food companies have spent thousands of dollars on research in order to develop a type of food that will satisfy the appetite of any growing youngster. Although many of the strained soups and vegetables that are now on the market were unheard of a few years ago, nevertheless proof that they are of benefit to the wee tot is borne out by the bureau of statistics which, during recent years, has shown that the mortality rate of infants has decreased considerably.

As every mother knows, every baby has its whims and fancies, and for that reason they sometimes try the patience of Job, and this leads to the question of photographs. There is probably no other industry that works harder to get the wee tot to smile and look its best than the photographer, but like everything else, practice makes perfect. Glen McGregor, however, of McGregor's Studio, is quite an expert in this line of work, and for the past several weeks he has been conducting a baby contest, in order that the most photogenic child may be produced. He, too, is co-operating in Baby Week by reminding parents to have a photograph of the child taken during its infant days. It is something that will take an honored place in the family album.

Baby shoes are one of the most important items, and Copp's Shoe Store have on hand a wide selection of shoes for the infant. While shoes are fairly hard to get for the wee tot, the management has a wide selection on hand at reasonable prices.

Let but by no means least, is the business of providing wholesome food for the baby. A large selection of strained soups and vegetables, and other baby foods are kept by McKenzie's Grocery, and mothers will have no trouble in fulfilling their needs. McKenzie's also carry a full line of other fruits and vegetables that will help to provide appetizing meals for the household.

MANY LUTHERAN GROUPS OBSERVE 100TH BIRTHDAY

Statistics Reveal Rapid Growth of Missouri Synod Since 1847

Some 4,700 congregations individually celebrated the 100th anniversary of the Lutheran Missouri Synod, in various churches yesterday, while a mass celebration of the centennial will be staged in Chicago during July in connection with the triennial convention of the Synod.

The phenomenal growth of this church body is reflected in the latest statistics. Organized in Chicago on April 23, 1847, with 16 congregations numbering less than 4,000 people, it now has 1,565,000 adherents and is the largest individual Synod of the Lutheran faith. While its present numerical strength is concentrated in the Central and Midwestern States, it has churches and mission stations in every state of the union as well as in Canada, Alaska, Mexico, Cuba, the Hawaiian Islands, England, Panama, and South America.

The Missouri Synod is divided into 33 districts, each free to elect its own officers and to control its own internal affairs. The three Canadian districts have a membership of 44,000, while the two South American districts have 65,000 members enrolled. Foreign mission work is carried on in India, China, Africa, and the Philippine Islands. Some 4,000 active pastors and missionaries are on the Synod's roster, while 1,900 ministerial students are enrolled in its colleges. More than 1,000 congregations maintain their own full-time Christian schools. These are attended by 80,000 pupils, who are taught by 2,500 teachers. Eight Lutheran high schools have a total enrolment of 2,400. The Sunday School enrolment is 330,000. This church body ascribes much of its success to its emphasis on Christian education.

SKET CLUB WILL BE ORGANIZED AT PEACHLAND

PEACHLAND — A meeting was held Wednesday, April 23, in the Municipal Hall to organize a Sket Club. After some discussion on the organization of a piece of land for this purpose, it was decided to appoint a committee to canvass for members from Peachland and Westbank. Following are members of the committee: F. Jones, of Westbank, and H. K. Keating and J. P. Long, of Peachland, Dr. L. Day, of Summerland, was present and gave many helpful points. He said pigeons are plentiful, but ammunition is still scarce. It is hoped to get 20 members and another meeting will be called to appoint officers.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of St. Margaret's Anglican Church at Peachland, on Friday, April 25, a quilt had been finished and is ready to be sent to the Dorcas Society. No delegates will be sent to convention this year. It was decided that the hostesses were Mrs. R. N. Macmillan, of Westbank, and Mrs. A. A. West, while helping to serve were Mrs. Topham and Mrs. Mohler.

Mrs. M. Ffoulkes Unanimously Elected President of Business And Professional Women's Club

At the fourth annual general meeting and election of officers held on Friday night at the Herbert Business College, Mrs. Muriel Ffoulkes was unanimously elected president. First vice-president is Mrs. Luella Balfour, second vice-president, Mrs. J. H. Trenwith, and corresponding secretary, Miss Christina Beath, of the Ottawa sister club. Mrs. Gwen Ansell is recording secretary, with Mrs. Molly Morrison as treasurer. Mrs. Ansell is membership chairman and Mrs. L. H. Jones-Evans is program convener. Publicity chairman is Mrs. Ira Swartz and constitution legislation head is Mrs. G. D. Herbert. Miss Mary Rattenbury is social convener, and film council representatives, Miss Lily Patterson. The job of wrapping clothing parcels for the family in Groenlo, Holland, has been taken over from Mrs. Swartz by Miss Beath, for the ensuing year.

In the absence of Miss Rose Tilling, Mrs. Ffoulkes conducted the meeting, and later, Mrs. Herbert, who is in California, supervised the elections.

Combined annual reports of past-president Miss Tilling, and past recording secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Powell, brought out that there had been 11 executive meetings and nine general meetings. A special luncheon had been held at the Royal Anne in March, honoring Hilda Hesson, national president. Other highlights of the season had been Mrs. Douglas Avison's talk on "Trends in Modern Education," art, when she was guest speaker for international night on March 1; the talk in July by Miss Dien Horstman, member of the Dutch underground; the national night meeting in November, when Mrs. Herbert, as guest speaker, told of her trip to the international convention in Toronto in July, where she was Kelowna's representative; international night in March, 1947, when Fred Marriage gave an outstanding talk on "Trends in Modern Education," and the Chernobyl recital on March 24.

The club members voted that $25 be set aside in a special fund to be put towards the buying of a community piano, as a club project.

Mrs. Ffoulkes and Miss Mona Bent will represent the club at a regional conference to be held outside Chilliwack on May 24-25. Mrs. Herbert invited club members to a picnic at her lakeside summer home on Sunday, June 15.

Mrs. Ffoulkes spoke in appreciation of the good work done by Miss Tilling and her executive during her presidency.

A special guest was Miss Winifred Drayson of the Vancouver club.

33RD BIRTHDAY IS OBSERVED BY REBEKAHS

Many Visitors Attend Birthday Supper Held in Orange Hall—Attend Church

Kelowna Rebekah Lodge, No. 30, celebrated its thirty-third anniversary in the form of a birthday supper, which was held in the Orange Hall on Wednesday, April 23. The tables were tastefully decorated with pink and green, the lodge colors, and also a profusion of daffodils and forsythia.

Visitors included Sis. L. Beckwith, New Westminster; Sis. J. Godfrey, Hazelmore, Sask. and Bro. L. Kennedy, of Red Deer, Alta. The huge birthday cake, also decorated in pink and green, was cut by Sis. E. Robertson, a charter member, assisted by Sis. L. Patterson, a member since inauguration. Sis. Patterson gave an interesting resume of the lodge activities. The committee responsible for the supper was convened by Sis. E. Rankin.

The supper was followed by the regular lodge meeting with Sis. H. J. Melsted, N.G., in charge. The meeting was one of the largest recorded, as many members who were unable to attend the supper, were present, and all officers were at the stations. Sis. L. Ayres, of Edmonton, was welcomed as a member by transfer. Plans were made regarding the Okanagan Rebekah District Association meeting which will be held in Summerland on Wednesday, May 7. Delegates will be Sis. E. Berchold and Sis. S. Larcombe. It was reported that Sis. D. Ballimore is still a patient at the General Hospital.

It was decided to join with the Brothers of Orchard City Lodge and the lodges of Vernon to attend church service on Sunday, May 4, in commemoration of the 128 years of Oddfellowship. The members will gather at the home of Sis. E. Granger, 363 Bernard Ave., prior to going to the church.

A report on the Dime-A-Time Club meeting held at the home of Sis. E. Fraser, was given by Sis. S. Larcombe. This took the form of a miscellaneous surprise shower for Sis. Fraser, who had just re-established housekeeping. Sis. Fraser expressed appreciation of the kind gesture.

The next meeting of the Dime-A-Time Club will be held at the home of Sis. M. Downing, 1655 Richter St., on Wednesday, April 30.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, a social hour was convened by Sis. E. Granger, Sis. B. Wilg and Sis. H. Hesselgrave. This was closed by tea and cake, thus concluding an enjoyable evening.

CITY ART GROUP HOLDS MEETING

Cadder House was the meeting place for the Kelowna District Art Group on Wednesday night when 14 members gathered for the weekly painting class. The evening was devoted to still life studies. On Sunday, 10 members met in the Park during the afternoon for outdoor sketching, the results being quite pleasingly surprising. It is hoped that Miss Jessie Topham Brown will arrange to come from Vernon to give outdoor sketching lessons several times a month during the summer.

FATE OF GOLF TO BE DECIDED AT SUMMERLAND

SUMMERLAND — Fate of the Summerland Golf Club will probably be decided at a meeting tonight. And if there isn't sufficient enthusiasm shown, final may be written to the golfing picture, local officials have warned.

Prior to the war, Summerland boasted a flourishing membership and a sporty golf course which was kept in good condition. But when the lads went away to the many fronts in the war years, the club went downhill rapidly.

Last year an attempt was made to revive this popular game but it did not meet with a great deal of success. Efforts have been made this spring to arouse enthusiasm and to date, apathy is the only word which has met those wishing to keep the game going.

Application from Rudy Kitch to operate a U-Drive service at 270 Bernard Ave., was referred to Alderman Jack Ladd after the matter was briefly discussed at the City Council meeting on Monday.

Council ruled that Mr. Kitch would have to specify the U-Drive parking stand, and that the cars would not be allowed to remain on Bernard Ave.

METAL OF ANCIENTS

Certain countries used iron as far back as 1500 B.C.

More About IRRIGATION HEADS

country is transformed. Thickly settled districts appear, with a family to every 10 acres or so. The land is green with crops, or covered with orderly rows of fruit trees. Bustling communities thrive along the railroad lines, or the shores of the lakes, over which the heavy production of these irrigated lands proceeds to market. Under the hot sun of summer the contrast between the irrigated districts and the surrounding dry and dusty ranges, burnt brown and lifeless, is striking in the extreme, providing a forceful and convincing ocular demonstration of the effect of the combination of productive soil and the life-giving water.

Good Farm Lands

In this area, containing many millions of acres of good farm lands, less than 30,000 acres are under irrigation at the present time. Not all the remainder is suitable for the types of farming that justify extension of irrigation facilities, but in the appendix attached to this brief we have detailed possible development projects by districts that would eventually more than triple the present area under irrigation.

Estimated cost of the construction of the systems now in existence is given as eight million dollars. From this small area the crops that went to market in the one year of 1946 have been valued at over $30,000,000 of which possibly one-third is net to the growers. In other words, the outlay for irrigation installations is returned three times over in one season in the value of goods produced.

In addition to this figure of thirty millions, consideration should also be given to the secondary industries such as lumbering, that are developed by the need for boxes and put in packing the produce, and great revenue to the transportation companies, operating on rail and on highways.

Estimated cost of the extension of the present systems to include the lands outlined in the appendix is given as a further $10,000,000, and while many years will elapse before the new areas will reach their full productive capacity, it is reasonable to assume that a doubling of value of the produce will result in the course of time.

It is characteristic of irrigation and similar reclamation projects, that their value steadily increases and the permanence of their productive capacity is in distinct contrast to that found in other primary industries. Where you have mining, eventually the veins of ore are mined out, the towns and settlements become "ghost towns," and the miners and operators must leave never to return. Similarly the lumberman cuts down the forests and moves further and further back, leaving behind in many instances, waste and desolation. Money expended upon land reclamation establishes a permanent source of production and wealth that enhances and enriches the country as the years go by.

Heavy Debts

It is unreasonable and unjust in principle, and has been amply proven to be impracticable in application, to place the entire cost of the installation and upkeep of the irrigation systems upon the land. In spite of the great wealth produced by these irrigation systems, all but a few are heavily in debt, and lack capital for the extension and efficient operation of their systems. Exceptions are those areas in the Oliver and Osoyoos districts, where the government owns and operates the system, charging the land with only a portion of the upkeep, and none of the capital cost, and in municipalities where the residents of the towns have helped—not without protest—to carry the burden of cost for the land owners.

During the past summer a Royal Commission investigated the position of the districts and the evidence presented by the districts may be summed up briefly as follows:

1. The districts got away to a bad start in their early years, beclouded with debts incurred in taking over bankrupt systems from private land companies, through building what proved to be inadequate.

2. The low returns during the depression years prevented payment of the heavy debt, creating added interest burdens.

3. The necessity for replacement and improvement of the present irrigation facilities in the respective districts now, and in the immediate future, precluded the possibility of repayment of loans in full, and only token payments could be made.

The findings of the Commissioner, Dean F. M. Clement of the University of B.C., very largely bore out and substantiated the contentions of the districts.

There is today, and has been for several years past, a steady influx of population into the irrigated districts, mainly from the prairie provinces. The result of this pressure upon the restricted area capable of settlement under present conditions has been to force up the price of land to inflated levels, and has also resulted in many cases in the subdivision of land into uneconomic units.

Would-be soldier settlers are unable to acquire lands within the price range of the V.L.A. loan, and new civilian settlers are in many cases burdening themselves with excessive capital costs, that might easily bring disaster in the event of any marked recession in agricultural prices.

The solution to this lies in the extension of irrigation to additional lands. In the present financial position of the districts they are unable to undertake these projects, and no agency exists at present that can provide the funds for and direction of such projects. For this reason the Association has strongly urged the extension of the provisions of the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act to this area of British Columbia in order to provide lands for the veterans and for the incoming settlers from the prairies. It is a task beyond the powers of the local district, but one easily capable of accomplishment by joint efforts of the federal, provincial and local authorities, in a manner similar to which irrigation was developed in the dry area of Saskatchewan and Southern Alberta.

Recommendations

In the opinion of this Association, the development of the area within the B.C. dry belt should be undertaken in the following manner:

1. For an immediate relief of the present situation, steps should be taken to expand these presently operating systems that have sufficient supplies of irrigation, in order to provide new lands in the shortest time.

2. New projects such as the Caston bench, Westbank and others should be undertaken without further delay. A program should be drawn up for the co-ordination of the various irrigation schemes, for provision of more adequate operating systems, and development of new storage for future expansion and new developments, after making complete surveys of the available water supplies, and soil surveys to determine the full possibilities of the respective areas.

In considering any long range program the Association earnestly recommends the adoption of some form of Regional Planning, as exemplified in the Tennessee Valley Authority in the United States, where all phases of development were considered in locating dams, etc., the structures being located in such a way as to provide flood control, facilitate river traffic and provide power. It is our contention that the development of irrigation storage and electrical power should be co-ordinated, and that wherever possible, all dams should be made to serve both purposes, and flood control in addition where this is a factor. In the analysis this is the greatest economy.

Immediately to the south of us we have another example of this co-ordination of effort, the Columbia basin project in the States of Washington. In this area a million acres of hitherto dry and sparsely settled land is being brought under irrigation. Only 25 per cent of the cost of the irrigation system is borne by the respective area. The sale of power being looked to for the repayment of the bulk of the costs. Similarly, it has been stated by Lillenthal, former head of the V.L.A., that the entire cost of that huge development will be repaid in 60 years from the sale of power alone. Added reason for the tying in of power and irrigation development is that considerable areas cannot be supplied with water by gravity, due to their location, but could be irrigated by pumping systems operated by cheap electric power. A recent survey by the Post War Rehabilitation and Reconstruction Bureau indicates that, 36,000 acres of arable farm land are in this class.

The recent entry of the British Columbia provincial government into the field of electrical power development should make easier the possibility of united and co-operative effort by the federal, provincial and local agencies toward a permanent solution of the irrigation problems of the B.C. Dry Belt through co-ordination of power and irrigation program.

Peace-Time Energy

Whatever the future may hold, whether it be a period of expanding economy or whether it be a recession, such reclamation projects as outlined in this brief are going to be urgently needed. If it is the former we will need the added lands to accommodate the incoming population, and to provide food to feed them and the goods for expanding world trade; if it is the latter, then the construction of the various projects will supply jobs and employment, and put needed purchasing power into circulation. In a time of war we developed our productive capacity for means of destruction to a hitherto unheard of peak. In time of peace we should turn that same energy and enthusiasm to the development of our capacity for production of peace-time needs.

The field of reclamation offers a challenge to the skill and imagination of our engineers and our mechanics, and to the foresightedness of our governments, not less than the challenge of war.

In the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation program we have seen a big step taken in that direction, but it is only a start. From the marshes of Fundy to the Dry Belt of B.C., opportunities exist across this Dominion for the extension of that program, the results of which cannot help but establish our economy upon a more lasting and enduring basis, and make Canada a more productive and more prosperous land.

Respectfully submitted, A. W. Gray, President, A.B.C.I.D.; D. McDougall, Secretary-Treasurer, A.B.C.I.D.

Potential Irrigation Areas of Dry Belt

KAMLOOPS.—The Thompson River Valley contains about 6,000 acres of high class land suitable for fruit and vegetables. Of this 1,725 acres could be watered by gravity at a cost of $115 per acre. Water for the other 4,275 acres would have to be pumped at a cost of about $100 per acre. Another 5,000 acres of clay land suitable for dairying and mixed farming, between Tappen and Sorrento could be irrigated by pumping at a cost of $100 per acre.

SALMON ARM.—The proposed project was surveyed in 1945 by the Provincial Water Rights Branch, and reports are on file in Victoria. It is proposed to irrigate 4,358 acres by gravity at a cost of $488,000 or $112 per acre; and to irrigate 3,993 acres by pumping at a capital cost $98 per acre. Total cost of the scheme is $879,870 or $105 per acre. 1,863 acres of this land is now in orchard, but without a satisfactory supply of water, and much loss is occasioned by lack of water.

ARMSTRONG.—Grandview Flats comprises 3,000 acres of very fine land. Surveys will be undertaken this year. Pumping to a height of 200 feet would be required. The area has a southerly exposure, and some fruit is grown, but without water this is not very successful. Probable cost of installation would run from $100 to $110 per acre.

VERNON.—The works of the Vernon Irrigation District were originally intended to irrigate from 12,000 to 14,000 acres, but the supply was inadequate, and there was no money to extend or enlarge the works. By tax sale and other methods the area was reduced to 7,600 acres. Water for an additional 2,000 acres could possibly be obtained by raising the Haddo Lake Dam. There is also a possibility of diverting Harris Creek into the District's works, and in either case the works would require to be enlarged in places. There are at least 5,000 acres of arable land in the District which could be served by these or other means at an estimated cost of $450,000 or $90 per acre.

WINFIELD AND OKANAGAN CENTRE.—Some 500 acres within the present irrigation district and 2,000 acres in that vicinity could be irrigated if water were available. Some of the land standing idle is of better quality than the land now served. There is no more water at the present source. Water could be pumped from Woods Lake, from which the highest lift would be 305 feet. The only source of an adequate supply of gravity water are Sugar Lake in the North or Mission Creek in the South, and this land is at the extreme end of both of these systems.

KELOWNA: Mission Creek Area: The average run-off of this Creek from April to September is about 320 second-feet. The lands at present watered use some 90 second-feet, and if the flow were regulated, the average run-off of this Creek from April to September is about 320 second-feet. There are also dam sites at the headwaters capable of storing 12,000 acre-feet. The cost per acre of this development would be somewhat less than the average, as existing works could be made use of to some extent. The total cost for the 9,000 acres is estimated at $750,000 or $83.33 per acre. There are six irrigation districts in the area which could benefit from this development, not including Winfield already mentioned, and they are as follows:—

Elison I.D.—662 acres are now watered in this district, but the supply is inadequate, and much loss is occasioned by water shortage. 1,400 acres, (including some of the best land in the district) could be developed on account of lack of water.

Scotty Creek I.D.—862 acres are now under water, but the supply is insufficient for a little more than half this area, and lack of water causes heavy loss. About 1,800 acres in and around this district are without water.

Black Mountain I.D.—This district was originally planned for 6,900 acres but has had great difficulty supplying 4,000 acres to which the main ditch in the past five years, at least 50% has been added to the supply, but laterals can barely carry enough water for the present area. When these have been enlarged an additional 1,500 acres in and around this district could be watered.

Glenmore I.D. has 1,783 acres under water now, and as storage is inadequate has at times to resort to pumping from Okanagan Lake, though this is very expensive. About 1,000 acres of arable land in this district is not served with water.

South-East Kelowna I.D.—2,390 acres are now served by this district, or less than half of the area for which it was originally intended. About 2,300 acres of land dropped from this district could be supplied under the Mission Creek scheme.

Okanagan Mission I.D.—This newly-formed district is installing pumps to raise water from Okanagan Lake for 700 acres. About 1,000 acres in this area could be supplied from Mission Creek by gravity.

WESTBANK: Westbank Irrigation District has 613 acres under water at the present time, but less than half the arable land is supplied. To take in more land the main flume would have to be rebuilt at a higher elevation and more land would have to be provided. Raising the main flume is estimated to cost $10,000, but no figure is available as to the cost of providing extra storage.

Westbank Indian Reserve cut-off would provide water for 250 acres of high grade fruit land by pumping from Okanagan Lake to a height of 230 feet at an initial cost of about $100 per acre.

Westbank, Steven's Property contains 1,200 acres of first-class fruit land. A private scheme to irrigate this land by gravity in 1922 fell through. It could be supplied by pumping from Okanagan Lake, in which case the total head would be 500 feet. No estimate of cost is available.

PENTICTON.—There are 2,000 acres of land suitable for orchard production in and around this municipality, and not now supplied with water. Besides this there is a large tract of very fine land on the Indian Reserve to the West which is suitable for fruit growing. Water could be provided either by increasing the present storage or by pumping from Okanagan Lake, and the cost is estimated at $75 per acre.

NARAMATA I.D.—850 acres are now watered in this district, and about 500 acres more could be irrigated. No more storage is available, so that pumping is the only means of supplying this land. Present power costs make this prohibitive.

OKANAGAN RIVER.—Over 1,200 acres of the best fruit lands along the Okanagan River could be irrigated in small units pumping to a head of 400 feet.

KEREMEOS I.D.—This district, which takes its water from the

HOPE TO MAKE VERNON FAIR ANNUAL EVENT

Vernon Industrial Exposition Scheduled to Open 3 p.m. on May 28

VERNON—The inaugural ceremony of Vernon's Industrial Exposition is scheduled for 3 p.m. on May 28 at the exposition grounds. Outstanding notables will declare the fête open, and it is expected that the groundwork will be laid for a repetition of the show every year, as is the case in Vancouver and elsewhere.

Visitors will be assured of plenty of entertainment. Besides the midway attractions, there will be events for the sports-minded; for children; for animal lovers and for those whose inclination leans to the arts.

Entertainment committee chairman Howard Thornton has over 20 varieties of recreation on the agenda. This is, of course, for the amusement of the visitors after the exhibits and attractions at the grounds have been exhausted.

A week before the exposition, a snake dance of school children will advertise the show. Parades will be held on May 28 and 29, a feature of which will be the navy, army and air force cadets from all over the Okanagan, with their bands. The Klondike and city bands, Scouts, Guides and other organizations will take part.

A unique feature of the first day will be the breakfast flight, bringing in planes from all over the West and the U.S.

The fashion show by Radelet, of Vancouver, will hold much interest for the ladies, particularly at this season, when the latest in swim trunks and sportswear will be shown. The Hudson's Bay Company will sponsor an exhibit of famous furs. Vernon mannequins will be used, including "Princess" Norma Campbell, the Okanagan's representative at the Wenatchee Blossom Festival.

There will be school shows on the grounds every day with performances by the Little Theatre Association.

Lawn bowling for sunny afternoons will draw its quota, as will novelties, including by cutting competitions, model planes, skeet final, dog show, and a Ukrainian Show.

All day Friday, May 30, students from the interior will congregate for the annual inter-city sports day on the grass oval in Polson Park. Kinsmen's Golden Gloves Boxing Tourney will be the mecca of the sports-minded on May 29. Every evening there will be dances.

RIGID MOSQUITO DRIVE BEING CARRIED OUT

A rigid mosquito control campaign is being carried out in Kelowna and rural areas, and the situation is well in hand, Alderman R. P. Walrod, chairman of the mosquito control committee, informed members of the City Council on Monday night.

Mr. Walrod said that all the breeding spots between Ellison and Cedar Creek had been covered, but that it is too early to ascertain the success of the experiments. He said it has been planned to treat the district through use of an airplane, but this had been held up by the department of transport. He said a fog spray is being used, and that it can cover 100 acres in half an hour.

The Alderman said that donations had been received from Okanagan Mission, East Kelowna, Rutland and Glenmore and that members of the committee had assumed the responsibility of collecting the money. Mayor Hughes came revealed that the local lawn bowling club is donating $25 toward the expenses.

Alderman Walrod said that some trouble is expected when irrigation water is released but it is hoped to cover all flat lands where the water may concentrate.

In conclusion, Alderman Walrod said it is planned to spray the whole of the City Park.

TINY SHACK TIPS PILOTS "PROB" DATA

R.C.A.F. Communication Centre Provides Northwest with Check on Flying

EDMONTON (CP)—A tiny frame building on Edmonton's western outskirts has only a maze of steel and wooden antenna towers to distinguish it from a respectable shack—but in reality it's the life centre of an elaborate communication system, with more power at its disposal than the combined wattages of all radio broadcasting stations in Edmonton. And it operates 24 hours a day.

The equipment in the building powers numerous wireless channels in a system rated as among the finest of its kind on the continent, for the little building is the communications section of the North West Air Command of the R.C.A.F.

The section's personnel and equipment provide an almost fool-proof safety check on all flying through navigational aids and weather information. No service aircraft can take off anywhere in the Canadian Northwest without an operator in a control centre at Edmonton airport headquarters knowing all about it.

If necessary, operators either communicate with the pilot either by voice or wireless code on an air-ground channel. Should a pilot flying in the far north need weather forecasts and find Edmonton's signals too weak for efficient reception, the operator here will punch a wireless key, sending his message by land line to Fort Nelson. The message gets automatic transmission there, extending the range by hundreds of miles.

150,000 Power Watts
For blanket coverage, signals sent from here can activate a key in Fort Nelson and give simultaneous transmission from both centres. Equipment ranges from 300-watt to 10,000-watt units. In all, the small building can produce more than 50,000 watts.

Transmission of weather data to the Mackenzie river basin for photographic flights is a big job during the spring, summer and fall.

Other channels give direct communication between Edmonton and Churchill; air-ground channels keep track of aircraft from Whitehorse to Winnipeg. This service recently was extended to United States army air bases.

An important part of the work is the study of radio wave propagation. A channel linking Edmonton with Red Bank, N.J., headquarters for some of the continent's foremost electronic developments, is used to report on these studies.

Loran (long range navigational aid) stations in the north operate 23 hours out of 24. Transmitters for the highly developed safety system are at Dawson Creek, B.C.; Hamill, Sask.; and Gimli, Man.

Signals from these points throw a pattern over nearly all North America. Newest addition to N.W.A.C. equipment is the radio teletype machine, linking Edmonton and Winnipeg. It automatically types messages at either end without benefit of land lines. Commercial companies are expected to be watching R.C.A.F. operation of this equipment closely.

Head of the section here is Sqdn. Ldr. R. D. Hansen, wartime radar expert. Assisting him is one of the best technical men, WO. E. F. McGrath, former peacetime "ham".

"JOLSON STORY" LAVISH MUSICAL IN TECHNICOLOR

Columbia Pictures' "The Jolson Story," with Larry Parks, Evelyn Keyes, William Demarest and Bill Goodwin, opens May 1st at the Empress Theatre, Kelowna, for a five-day run. Filmed in Technicolor, this is the long-awaited extravaganza based on the music, the magic and the times of America's greatest entertainer.

Freelanced as a colorful and rhythmic panorama of American show business, the screenplay, written by Stephen Longstreet, carries through nearly forty years of Jolson's remarkable career. Dramatically revealed are the steps leading to his success. In New Orleans, he has become tired of the traditional routines of a minstrel show; the story here, and deep inside he is developing a technique all his own to fully capture the rhythms of jazz. Audiences excite him—he wants to get ever closer to them, to make them feel what he feels in his blood. When he gets his first crack at Broadway, he is ready with his new-found style and creates a sensation.

"The Jolson Story" is largely told in music, as might be expected, for no other entertainer has had so many beloved melodies associated with him. We can expect to hear them all in the film, tunes like "Swanee," "You Made Me Love You," "April Showers," "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," etc.

Much praise has been heaped on the broad young shoulders of Larry Parks for his spectacular performance in the title role. Virtually unknown when the film was born more than three years ago, he is being acclaimed today as a top-flight star. The way he has cloaked himself with Jolson's personality in the film is said to be uncanny.

Gorgeous Evelyn Keyes has the romantic lead opposite Parks, and enjoys the flattery of Technicolor once again, having recently appeared in "A Thousand and One Nights" and "Renegades." William Demarest and Bill Goodwin play associates of Jolson who aided him in reaching the top, and should add much to the stature of the film.

Alfred E. Green directed for producer Sidney Skolowsky, noted Hollywood columnist. Other favorites in the cast are Ludwig Donath, Scotty Beckett, Tamara Shayne, Jo-Carroll, Dennison, John Alexander, Ernest Cossart and the Mitchell "Boy-choir."

Similkameen River could extend its irrigated area by some 2,000 acres at an estimated cost of $100 per acre. The work necessary would be the extension of present ditches and construction of new ditches at higher levels. Storage on the Ashnola River is a possibility which would have to be considered for this District.

CAWSTON I.D.—This District could take in an additional 1,500 acres of fruit land by a pumping system with a lift of 110 feet. The initial cost is estimated at $80 per acre, and owing to the low lift and the high quality of the land it is considered an economically sound proposition. The V.L.A. owns land here that should be developed for veterans.

ROBSON I.D.—By the extension of its pipe system this District could irrigate an additional 150 acres at a cost of $15,000. Its present main also requires renewing at a cost of $25,000.

Combined Irrigation and Power Projects

SUGAR LAKE PROJECT
This is an old scheme which was originally proposed by the late Hon. Price Ellison 35 years ago. It was impossible to get sufficient private capital to construct it, but it is of such outstanding merit that its size should be no deterrent. Our present knowledge of the benefits which would accrue should be an incentive to see that it is undertaken at the earliest possible moment. It would provide water for every arable acre in the North Okanagan (estimated at 50,000 acres). There are no inordinately expensive works required, so that its cost should be within the figure of $100 per acre, which appears to be about the average throughout the Okanagan. This would make the cost of this project $5,000,000.

A small vegetable plot, well fertilized and kept busy all season, will produce as large a crop as can be taken from twice the area, if properly planned, fed and cultivated.

At the same time it will take half as much work, and the vegetables it produces will be superior in flavor, tenderness and nutrition. These are good reasons for examining this discussion shows an attractive plan for such a garden, and the following production schedule will indicate how it should be planned.

Few families will wish to grow exactly the crops listed in this schedule, but it would not take many winter evening hours to make their own schedules, and grow the vegetables they like.

A garden like this will surprise you by its abundant yield, and its beauty; and instead of a burden, its care will be enjoyable recreation.

CITY ROTARY MEMBERS PAY SPOKANE VISIT

Rotarians of the Okanagan Valley clubs were recent guests of the Spokane Rotary Club. About 20 local members and their families motored to the U.S. city and while there stayed at the homes of the Spokane members.

They were entertained April 18 at the Davenport Hotel with a dinner, concert and dance. The following day they were taken on a tour of the world's largest aluminum plant, shown the processes and had the various phases of production fully explained to them.

O. L. Jones, president of the Kelowna Rotary Club, addressed the Spokane Rotarians at their luncheon on April 17. Speaking on the high ideals of Rotary to promote world peace, he said: "We must first of all agree that the price of peace will be paid as quickly and cheerfully as we paid the price of war."

He called on all Rotarians to support the United Nations and to "exercise tolerance in international thinking." He said it was the duty of every Rotarian to work for world peace and the success of U.N.

At the weekly luncheon meeting at the Royal Hotel last Tuesday, members recounted their memorable experiences south of the border the week before. They all spoke highly of the hospitality of the Spokane members and the way they put themselves out to make the visitors feel at home.

SALVATION ARMY CAN USE PARK ON MAY 24

City Council last Monday night approved a request from the Salvation Army to hold a musical rally in the City Park on May 24. While the park is usually turned over to the local GYRO Club for the May 24 celebration, the Salvation Army spokesmen promised that the rally would not interfere with GYRO activities. Approval was granted providing a loud speaker system is not used.

Growing Too Many Plants Ruins Home Garden Harvest

It hurts to destroy your plants, but ruthless thinning is necessary for a good yield.

Chief cause for lack of quality in home garden vegetables, grown in fertile soil with good care, is overcrowding and crowding is due to failure to thin out the row, so each plant has sufficient room to develop properly.

And failure to thin out is often due to emotional resistance on the part of the gardener, who cannot bring himself to destroy the precious seedling plants which have grown from the seed he more often than not has sown. This must be overcome.

Another reason may be the work involved, when seeds have been sown too thickly. It is not uncommon for ten times the required number of seeds to be sown, so that ninety per cent of the seedlings must be pulled up. That is obviously excessive. The rate of seeding even for small seeds should not exceed fifteen seeds per foot, except where germination is known to be much lower than the legal standard.

Even with high-germinating seeds it is advisable to sow more than you will have room to mature; because accidents are always possible which will destroy some plants; and accidents in a row are difficult to all.

For the same reason, thinning should be a gradual process, beginning when plants are large enough to handle, and continuing

Resents Way Peachland Council Dispenses With Office Help

Mrs. F. C. Wright Takes Exception to Way Matter Is Handled

PEACHLAND — Mrs. F. C. Wright, who has been employed in the municipal office at Peachland for more than a year, is taking strong exception to the manner in which the Peachland Council is dispensing with her services. Two weeks ago, the Council, meeting in committee, decided to hire an assistant for C. C. Inglis, municipal clerk, and at the council meeting the following week, when the minutes were read, it was revealed that steps were being taken to hire another individual in the place of Mrs. Wright. Mrs. Wright previously had been employed by Mr. Inglis. Under the new set-up, the Council will have jurisdiction in hiring an assistant to Mr. Inglis.

Mrs. Wright has been employed in the office. While no definite steps have been taken by the municipal council in hiring another assistant for Mr. Inglis, it is understood that at least one is being considered by the Council.

KAMLOOPS—This city grabbed its second provincial basketball crown last week when the Kamloops High School Red Devils defeated Vancouver Ryersons 60-53, to take the B.C. Intermediate "B" title and the Western Fuel Corporation of Canada trophy. The cup is nearly four feet high and is the tallest one up for annual competition in the province.

FARM LABOR HEADS HOLD PARLEY HERE

Local Farm Labor Service Office Will Be Opened in Kelowna on May 1

One-way transportation for orchard workers will not be paid this year by the Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Service. It was announced by William MacGillivray, director of the agricultural development and extension branch of the department of agriculture this morning. Mr. MacGillivray, who along with Ernest MacGinnis, secretary of the agricultural production committee, and Col. J. E. Wood, head of the national employment department, conferred with branch managers of the unemployment service commission and H. C. S. Collett, head of the local Dominion-Provincial farm labor service.

The conference was called with a view to making plans for this year's harvest help. Mr. MacGillivray warned fruit farmers that construction and road building programs would no doubt cut into the available labor demand, and said that wages would have to be on par with other industries.

Commenting on the decision to stop payment of one-way transportation for workers, Mr. MacGillivray thought this would bring about a better quality of worker, as in the past many individuals took advantage of the scheme in order to see the country.

The farm labor officials are keenly interested in the labor survey which will be made in Kelowna next week, and thought the city is setting a fine example to other B.C. communities.

At the conclusion of the conference, it was announced that the local farm labor service office will be opened in Kelowna on May 1. H. C. S. Collett will again be in charge of the Kelowna office.

JUNIOR BASEBALL VERNON—A city junior baseball league will be operated here this year, consisting of three or four teams. Tentative plans call for games twice weekly and on the Sundays the mainline entry is travelling.

MORE RECORDS SET BY COAST SWIM ARTISTS

VICTORIA—Still more Canadian record marks were broken when members of the Y.M.C.A. Swimming Club hit the "Y" pool in time trials last week. The flying "Y" swimmers set new marks for two relay and one individual event.

The quartet of Peter Salmon, Eric Jubb (both well-known here as Regatta competitors), Bob Montgomery and Don Smyth combined in the 160-yard senior freestyle relay to set a time of 1:16.6, breaking the old mark of 1:17 flat set by the Detroit Y.M.C.A.

With Jubb swimming the backstroke, Salmon breaststroke, and Montgomery free style, the 120-yard senior medley relay distance was covered in 1:03.7 to better the old time by one-tenth second. Jubb clipped over seven seconds off the record held by Gordon Kerr of the Border Swimming Club when he swam the 300-yard junior individual medley in 3:57.7.
